Health ministry likely to ban ITC's e-cigarettes

DIGBIJAY MISHRA

New Delhi, 29 October

India's largest cigarette manufacturer ITC's plan to develop a market for e-cigarettes might hit a roadblock with the Union health ministry planning to impose a ban on all products described as "Electronic Nicotine Delivery Systems (ENDS)".

In his clearest message yet on the controversy over the safety of ENDS, health minister Harsh Vardhan ruled out their acceptability in the light of research findings by experts which have held that they are no less unsafe than the "real thing", said a government statement.

The minister, who was addressing global tobacco control experts at the 45th Union World Conference on Lung Health in Barcelona, Spain, said e-cigarettes and similar products push children towards the tobacco habit eventually via nicotine dependence.

India, until recently, had seen very few small players foraying into the e-cigarettes business but FTC, which sells every three cigarettes out of four, forayed into the segment in August.

When contacted, ITC did not comment on the matter.
